JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN MONDAY, AUGUST 3, 1886

Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at 60 a Year

NUMBER 127

VOLUME 29

Entered at the Post Office at Janesville, Wis., as second-class matter.

The democrats in Indiana are doing some good work for the republicans. The more they try to defend Hendricks and Jones, the better it is for the republicans.

Some of the mugwumps are still whining over the work of the administration. But as they knew what Cleveland was before the election, they are not entitled to anybody's sympathy.

The population of Dakota, according to a census which has just been finished is 400,000 in the whole territory, of which 150,000 are in the northern half and 250,000 in the southern. This would involve an increase of nearly 200 per cent since 1880, when only 135,177 inhabitants were reported, but the rush of settlers into the region has been so rapid during the past five years that such a wonderful growth is not incredible.

Even the venerable Simon Cameron who has been waving the bloody shirt for years, rejoices over the fact that there will be ex-confederate generals among the pall-bearers at General Grant's funeral, and sends a dispatch to Fred Grant as follows: "I am glad to know that General Johnston, Buckner and Gordon are going to act as pall-bearers with Sherman and Sheridan. Your father's prayers for peace in his country have been answered and the last bitterness of the war wiped out forever."

The jury in the Riel case agreed in thirty minutes to condemn the rebel, after which he was sentenced to be hanged on the 18th of September. Riel was a murderer before he incited the rebellion in Canada during the present year. He once murdered a Mr. Scott in cold blood, and on a technicality was saved from death for the crime. His fate should be that of all rebels, and the country will rejoice that there is no hope for the criminal that her majesty will interfere with the sentence of death.

General Wells, who was removed in the middle of his term as collector of customs in Vermont, has not only been an efficient officer, but he was a brave soldier. Colonel Sweeney, the new collector, never was nearer the front during the war than the state of Vermont. He was one of the "heroes" of the Moray later fraud, however, and the two things taken together secured him the place. He proposes to imitate Jesus, of Tadmorphus, and make every republican "walk the plank." This is the way the administration is performing its wonderful reforms.

It is claimed by Mr. T. C. Campbell, a noted criminal lawyer in Cincinnati, that the death of General Grant had ruined the republican party of Ohio, and that Judge Forsaker would certainly be elected. He states that the general's death, with the universal grief over that event, had united the republicans of that state as they had never been united before. With a solid republican party he thought there was no chance for the democrats to carry the state, as the latter was only successful when the republicans were divided.

E. P. Bacon & Co., commission merchants of Milwaukee, have received reports from their correspondents in this state and in Minnesota and Iowa, and are summarized as follows: "Those from Wisconsin nearly all agree that wheat has been materially damaged by the hot, rainy weather of the past few days, and the estimates of the damage vary from 10 to 25, and even 50 per cent, in a few localities. In many parts of Iowa harvesting has already begun, and in that state the complaints of damage are fewer. In Minnesota, rust and blight are generally reported, as the result of the trying weather, and in each of the three states some damage is reported from the wheat and chinch bug."

The Current published in Chicago, by Mr. Edgar L. Wakeman, shows a good financial exhibit at the close of its fiscal year, as well as demonstrating the possibility of successfully establishing a first-class literary periodical in Chicago.

As stages are quickly abandoned with the complexity of railroads, so the huge, ornate cathedrals, composed of ornate and elaborate designs, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are sugar-coated, and little larger than a pea. These are made of highly concentrated vegetable extracts. By druggists.

W. I. Blood, P. & E. Empress Carlin. The unfortunate Empress Carlin, of Mexico, who has been lying on her death bed for some time, is now so much more comfortable and able to pass her time in the hospital, that she has been able to write a long letter to her friends, in which she expresses her own feelings and those of her family, and also the time of year that she never again for game, fish or fruit out of season.

There has been a lively spirit of rivalry among four or five cities in Wisconsin regarding population, and the following show the condition of things: Oshkosh now more takes her deserved place as the second city in the state. The Northwestern presents returns to-day from all the large cities and a number of smaller ones as far as heard from, which places Oshkosh without dispute as second to Milwaukee in the list, with a population of 21,947, as against 15,718 in 1880, a gain of 6,229 in the past five years. The most remarkable showing is that of Janesville, which has increased from 10,110 to 21,633 and comes next to Oshkosh in the list. Racine, which held second place in 1880, has dropped to fifth place. La Crosse taking fourth place. At this writing the Fond du Lac footings have not been completed, but are promised later in the day; but a telephone message from the city clerk's office says they will not reach 20,000, in which case the fifth and sixth places will have to be accepted by that city and Racine.

The democratic papers that have been engaged in the defamation of John Roush's character for several months ought to understand his proper relations to the government before hurling their darts of malice at the great shipbuilder. It has been claimed that he had received hundreds of millions from the government, and that he had become rich through fraudulent contracts. The New York Tribune has examined the books of the naval department as well as the books of John Roush, and has obtained some valuable facts therefrom. From 1865 to 1885, exclusive of the cruises sent to the government, he received less than $3,000,000 from the government. During the same twenty years the entire amount of work done by him on contracts from other parties was $60,000,000. It will be seen that his government contracts formed not more than five per cent of the whole volume of his business as a shipbuilder. The Tribune further says: "We have not estimated his work for the government during the war period, as that was an extraordinary period when all shipbuilders were impressed into the service. The naval department in that crisis was glad to have anybody build ships who had the facilities for doing the work. From the close of the war, however, as we have shown, government contracts formed only an insignificant proportion of Mr. Roush's immense business. The partisans of the administration have been guilty of rank injustice in holding up this veteran shipbuilder to public obloquy as a privileged contractor who had grown rich and powerful by plundering the government."

The leading republicans of New York are beginning to sound the key note in the coming campaign in that state. For once they will take a better view of the political situation, and will have a higher idea of what the principles of the republican party should be, and by this course will give New York state to the republicans, and hold it steadily in the ranks of republican states until the great contest of '88. When the leaders and platforms of the party are right, there is no danger of defeat. Take the long list of national questions which have demanded consideration and settlement during the last thirty years, and it is only repeating the record history has written to say that the republican party has been consistently right, and the democratic party consistently wrong. And the antagonistic and relative position of the two parties continues to-day. Take the great question of civil service reform—state and national—a vital reform, if our politics are to rise above the low conception that officers are 'spoils' which belong to the accidental or temporary victors. It is distinctly a republican measure, having the hearty support of the great majority of the party, while the democratic party in its great majority, is as instinctively opposed to it, because the present administration, in all its appointments except two or three, has gone contrary to every principle of the republican party.

When the republicans of New York shall wheel into line and make such nominations as shall be out of the reach of all criticism, and shall adopt a platform on which all republicans can solidly stand, there will be no danger of defeat. What the republicans of New York need are strong, honest, simple-hearted men for leaders, and when they head the councils of such men the majority at the next election will be on the side of the republican party. It won't do to name questionable men of men who have in anywise offended the moral sentiment of the people, and then make them run on a good platform. No platform can hold such men in a state which sometimes goes politically one way and sometimes the other. But to make the party leaders out of men who are above the touch of political scandal, and to make the platform sincere and progressive, the republicans of the Empire state will carry the day this fall. Such men and such platforms can not be defeated.

HALF A MILE OF FIRE.

THE CITY OF TORONTO SWEEP BY A GREAT CONFLAGRATION.

Over a Million in Property Destroyed and Tens of Thousands of the City's History.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 3.—One of the most destructive fires that have ever taken place in Toronto commenced about 12:30 this morning in the large brick building erected by the Toronto Sugar Refining company, on the Esplanade.

A great cloud of blowing from the east, and carried chunks of burning timber along the Esplanade, igniting wooden buildings as far as five or six blocks.

In a short time nothing was left of the sugar refinery but the walls and smokestacks. The buildings of Sauter, Evans, Hughes, Gonsky and Libbey, all built by the Toronto Sugar Refining company, and other buildings are in flames.

Unless the wind changes the whole south side of the Esplanade will have to succumb. Sparks are flying and lodging on the roofs of the large warehouses on Front and Wellington streets, and fears are entertained that several of them may take fire.

The fire brigade are, and have been, working manfully, but their efforts seem powerless. The streets are lined with thousands of people.

The loss will be enormous. Two schoolhouses are burned to the water's edge.

The fire is now half a mile in length.

The work of destruction on the Esplanade will continue until the morning. The foot of Yonge street, all the intervening buildings and warves having been burned to the ground.

The great Western freight sheds, formerly the passenger station, on the north side of the Esplanade, are in imminent danger, and are expected to be in flames very soon.

The steamer Ontario is getting up steam to go to the harbor.

The steamer Chicago is getting up steam to go to the harbor.

Unless the wind changes, the whole south side of the Esplanade as far as the Union station will undoubtedly burn.

Showers of sparks are being carried to the opposite side of the street, and if the buildings there catch fire there is no saying what immense damage will be done.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER IN MICHIGAN.

A Young Lothario Found Dead in a Lake.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 3.—A man named Mark, living in Bloomingdale, Van Buren county, suspected his wife of infidelity, and watching her with a young man named Harvey Keith with her Tuesday night, Young Keith fled without his clothes, but did not go home. Wednesday morning Mark went to Keith's parents, and the son's clothes were at his house, but nothing was heard of the missing man until Saturday, when a man went to the lake, he discovered the body of a man sinking out of the water, the man's swollen features distorted, and the body naked, except a shirt. The man went back to Bloomingdale and told the authorities of his discovery. A large crowd went to Mark's lake, and found the body was that of Harvey Keith. It was much bruised about the head, neck and chest, and was horribly mangled with a knife. The evidence before the coroner's jury, which has not yet arrived at a verdict, is to the effect that this man was killed before the body was thrown into the lake. No water was found in the lungs. It was deduced, too, that on Tuesday night, about the time Mark says he returned and found Keith, a team was seen hitched by the roadside near Mark's house in charge of a man. It is believed that Keith was intimate with another woman besides Mark's wife in that vicinity. It is claimed that the two husbands entangled Keith, and that a team was used to convey him to the lake. Mark is a well-to-do farmer, and is a very respectable man.

WIFE AND I.

[John George Watts in Cassell's.]
Came and drank a cup of joy
Now with me, good wife,
And bring the girl and boy.
Now with me, good wife,
Let all hearts be glad and gay,
It is fourteen years to-day
Since you spoke the little "I do"
That to me was life.

When in wedding white arrayed
I looked up at you, dear wife,
Why, I almost felt afraid
To touch your hand.
And when with love I kissed
Your face on my wedding day,
You seemed a being sent
From the "Better Land."

And an angel you have proved
Since that good, glad day,
Aye, wherever we have roved
In sunshine and in shade,
In all goodness you transcend,
And all excellences blend
In the mother, wife and friend,
As a sacred bond.

You have made my life more pure
Than it might have been;
You have taught me to endure
And to strive and win.
With your simple words of praise
You sanctify my days,
And your thoughts to heaven you raise
From a world of sin.

Come, let's quit this dusty town
With its noise and strife,
And seek the breezy down
Where health is life.
Work is good, and so is play;
For us keep our wedding day,
O'er the hill and far away.
Happy man and wife.

NO AFFECTIONS, NO AMBITIONS.

Life of a London Flower-Girl—Didn't

Told to Books.

[Dorothy Tennant in English Illustrated.]

One afternoon, attracted by the singularly refined face of a flower-girl passing the Strand, I went up to her and bought some of her flowers, and asked her to come and sit to me, explaining that I wished to "take her likeness."

She said, rather modestly, that she was not used to being painted, but that she would consent to do so. The next morning, at half past eight, she came to my studio, and after the usual preliminaries, she sat to me in a flower-girl's dress.

She looked lovely, and I was very much interested in her. She had a very fine, clear complexion, and her eyes were a deep, clear blue.

After sitting for some time, she suddenly exclaimed: "Well, it is a rare chance to see oneself like this!" and turned her small, delicate head from side to side, looking at the camera with a curious expression.

She was very shy, and yet, at the same time, she was very confident. Her clothes were very simple, and yet, they were very becoming.

After sitting for some time, she suddenly exclaimed: "Well, it is a rare chance to see oneself like this!" and turned her small, delicate head from side to side, looking at the camera with a curious expression.

She was very shy, and yet, at the same time, she was very confident. Her clothes were very simple, and yet, they were very becoming.

LAKESIDE ASSEMBLY

Saturday a Glorious Day for the Children.

The Main on Sunday—Excursion to the Dells—To-morrow's Programme.

[From our regular correspondent.]

LAKESIDE, Aug. 4, 1885.

Saturday afternoon fulfilled the promises of the morning and unfolded into us rare and beautiful day as ever gladdened the hearts of the Monona campers.

The children were amused, instructed and entertained in the best manner possible. The great tabernacle was given to their sole use and they nearly filled it while their enthusiastic applause told how well they appreciated the tales of the Holy Land by Miss Von Finkelstein.

In the afternoon, Prof. Richards' experiments elicited exclamations of childish delight, and when the time came to depart, their lagging footsteps and backward glances marked but too well the regret at the closing of their day.

Quite a sensation was created in the afternoon by the report that one of the steamers was burning on the lake. A steamer had left the Lakeside pier Tonyawatha, and shortly after, a cloud of smoke was seen rolling over the water, through which the steamer could be faintly seen. Another steamer was upset on the lake, and created quite a diversion for the people on the bank, as its occupants scrambled out of the shallow water; as well as did an erratic sail-boat, which broke loose from its moorings and started for the city alone, but was overtaken, after an amusing and exciting chase.

In the evening the chorus class gave a concert, which was universally pronounced the best ever given by any of Prof. Sherwin's classes at this place.

Those who came to the grounds Saturday night, to spend Sunday, were sorely disappointed when they awoke in the morning, to find a cold, drizzling rain falling, which kept up its unceasing patter until night fall. It is acknowledged the most disagreeable day the encampment has ever been fated to endure.

Notwithstanding the rain, quite a large audience listened to an excellent sermon by W. C. Richards.

The assembly company lodged over 125 transients Saturday night.

An excursion party will leave the Lakeside grounds for "The Dells" on Wednesday a. m. at 7:30 o'clock, returning the same day at 9 o'clock p. m. The round trip fare will be $2, including steam boat fare.

This morning is cool and bright, and the light wind is fast drying the ground.
